

Natural mineral promotes safe and effective immune support

by Dr. Bill Bergman

We believe that health is the natural state that would result if we remove the barriers of stress, toxicity and nutrient deficiency.

Up to now our suggestions regarding removal of harmful toxins (heavy metals, pesticides, etc.) has involved using an approach involving homeopathics, high density nutrient-rich whole foods and other methods. Now we have a new, safe, effective and user-friendly approach to immune system support by effectively ridding the body of accumulated toxins through the use of a purified, activated form of a natural mineral, soluble in water, which is called zeolite.

My friend and mentor from Amherst College and Columbia Medical School, Dr. Gabriel Cousens, a well-known author of four books and highly-recognized authority in wholistic health and raw foods detoxification, informed me about his experience and research on zeolite, available through a patented formula called Natural Cellular Defense. This is important information for everyone to understand.

The problem of toxicity relates to the accumulation of pesticide residues and heavy metals like lead and mercury. Some metals are naturally found in the body and are essential to human health. Iron, for example, prevents anemia, and zinc is a cofactor in over 100 enzyme reactions. Heavy or toxic metals, however, are trace metals with a density at least five times that of water. They cannot be metabolized by the body and are passed up the food chain to humans. These include: mercury, nickel, lead, arsenic, cadmium, aluminum, and platinum. Heavy metals have no function in the body and can be highly toxic.

When taken into the body via inhalation, ingestion, and skin absorption, a gradual buildup of these toxins will occur. High-concentration exposure is not necessary to produce a state of toxicity in the body, as heavy metals accumulate in body tissues and, over time, can reach toxic concentration levels.

One of the most important points to realize is that there is a growing recognition of the link between toxicity and inflammation as a key factor in the promotion of heart disease, cancer, Alzheimer's, arthritis and other chronic diseases.

The good news is that these poisons can be safely and effectively removed through the brilliance of a natural mineral formed by the contact of volcanic lava and ocean water which has a molecular configuration that traps and then clears toxins from the system.

Please read Dr. Cousens product review carefully by linking here.

Until our next conversation, we wish you the very best of good health and happiness.

Bill Bergman, M.D.

Join our mailing list!

info@rockymountainresource.net

303 374-1393

<http://www.rockymountainresource.net>

Join

